ings in which the various scenes are enacted. These include: A remarkable conception of a public section of the ancient city of Carthage under the Roman rule; a bird's eye shot of the City of Biskra; the Monie Carlo of the Algerian Sahara, taken from a minaret with an Arab praying in the foreground; fifteen actual shots about the City of Biskra, especially made for the picture by a representative from Paramount's London studio; a picturesque African oasis, constructed at a great cost on a desert site near Hollywood; a complete Arabian village—the strong hold of the bandit chieftain Omar; and beautiful exotic interiors, such as the interior of the Sheik's tent, and the desert palace of Omar.

The story itself is fascinating and alive with the color of the Algerian Sahara. It concerns the infatuation of a tribal chieftain, known as "The Sheik" for a haughty and beautiful long sh girl who is visiting in Biskra, his abduction of the girl and many dramatic episodes of this strange romance. Then there is a surprise which makes the entire episode a most happy one.

Those who have seen Rudolph Valentino in other pictures such as "The Four Horsemen" will surely want to see him in this production and be pleased to know that this "He" Vamp of the movies is scheduled to appear here shortly in "The Conquering Power" and "Camille."

The management has been fortunate in securing the services of a talented singer to principal the cleverly arranged prologue to the picture.
